To Whom It May Concern:

This letter is to inform you that The University of North Carolina at Greensboro (UNCG) athletic department is on NCAA probation for a two-year period which began on June 25, 2015 and will end on June 24, 2017.

UNCG received the final decision from the NCAA Committee on Infractions on June 25, 2015, regarding its Level II case of violations that were initially discovered by the University in the Fall of 2011.

At that time, the institution self-reported potential violations to the NCAA enforcement staff. UNCG was asked to review all student-athletes' initial eligibility certification for academics and amateurism within a five-year period. The violations centered on the institution's improper certification of student-athletes' initial eligibility. UNCG failed to monitor its initial eligibility certification process and squad list requirements, according to a decision issued by a Division I Committee on Infractions panel. From 2007-08 through 2012-13, the university improperly certified the initial eligibility of 57 student-athletes in 13 sports. The institution permitted those student-athletes to practice, compete, receive athletically related aid and/or receive actual and necessary expenses associated with competition prior to the institution certifying their initial eligibility status. Additionally, from 2007-08 through 2010-11, the university did not require the athletics director or head coaches to review and sign squad lists and did not keep lists on file.

The penalties imposed by UNCG and the NCAA Committee on Infractions in this case include:

- Public reprimand and censure;
- Two years of probation from June 25, 2015 through June 24, 2017.
- A fine of $5,000;
- A comprehensive compliance review by an outside agency with athletics compliance expertise (self-imposed by university);
- A vacation of all wins in which ineligible student-athletes competed during 2007-08 through 2012-2013 for all sports but Women's Basketball.

The penalties imposed by UNCG and the Committee on Infractions did NOT include any competition penalties or any post-season ban, no scholarship reductions in any sport and no recruiting restrictions.

What does "probation" mean? During the two-year period, UNCG will be monitored more closely to ensure that a comprehensive NCAA educational program is implemented. Compliance is a shared responsibility and we are committed to following all NCAA rules and regulations.
